THE NEW HOME

Large Crowd Attended Reception at Home of the Friendless.

IT WAS A PRETTY OPENING

The Guests Were Delighted With the Elegant New Institution Just Completed.

OFFICIAL VISIT MADE LAST NIGHT

Yesterday afternoon and evening the doors of the beautiful new Home of the Friendless were thrown open to the public and many hundreds called during the hours. If any came to criticize, they certainly remained to praise, for from basement to attic it gave pleasure to all who saw it, and is, indeed, a credit to our city. It is a splendid, substantial brick structure, modern in architecture but free from all gingerbread effect, there is nothing cheap or tawdry about it, it emphasizes the fact that "beauty unadorned is adorned the most," and speaks comfort, elegance, and durability in all of its stately outline. Mr. W. L. Brainerd is the architect and the fine building is a monument not only to his talent and capability as an architect but to his splendid generosity as well for the plans of the magnificent building and his personal superintendence of every detail were a free gift, and certainly no more valuable donation was made by any citizen. His time, talent and thought were given unreservedly.

The building has a fine location, being out beyond the city's crowded confusion, yet within a square of the street car line, and is surrounded by extensive grounds adapted to the children's healthful play and exercise. The entire building is heated, and lighted by electricity, and the sanitation has been especially looked to.

As you enter, the pretty stairway and hall give you a feeling of space and of pleasure, and quite prepare you for the attractiveness of the rest of the house. To the right, on the first floor is the reception room which is exceedingly pretty. This was furnished by Mr. Armour, Gardner as a memorial to his first wife, Mrs. Harriet Leach Gardner, and has pretty rugs, chairs, table, desk, ornaments and pictures, very attractively arranged. A full length picture of Mrs. Gardner, who was one of Paducah's handsomest girls adorns the walls of this room. Opening out of this is the play-room which is another beautiful and tender memorial. To the furnishing of this room Col. Fred Fleming, the Texas oil magnate, gave $100 in memory of his little daughter, Undine, who recently died. Everything in the room is selected with beautiful care and taste. An exquisite copy of Raphael's "Madonna of the Chair" hangs over the mantel, and she rug, long table, chairs, and clock are all very handsome. Under the windows are broad seats, the tops of which lift up, and are capacious storerooms for the children's toys, of which Santa Claus will soon give them an abundant store. Beside these rooms there are the large and sunny dining room, the housekeeper's room, a lavatory, a large, airy kitchen, and convenient pantries, all on the first floor. The entire house is finished in natural wood and the floors are all hardwood.

On the second floor are two large dormitories for the girls and boys, and another dormitory for women, the matron's room, three splendid bath rooms, a large linen closet, a nice hospital, and every convenience that could be desired. The rooms all looked as cozy as possible with their little white enamel beds and in the hospital was a little fellow in bed who, reaped a bountiful harvest of sympathy and nickels from all who saw him.

Of course there are many things that the board of directors feel is needed to complete the furnishing of the home, for all could not be gotten at once, but many bountiful gifts were given later, now that the needs have been seen. Some of the gifts were most beautiful, generous and useful yesterday, and the money contribution was quite large. In the reception room there was a book in which were recorded the names of all who were willing to become honorary members of the board of directors at the payment of $1 per year, and some 70 names were enrolled yesterday afternoon and others last evening.

Perhaps never were more radiant faces nor more grateful hearts in our city—or any city—than those of the fifteen noble, brave women who compose the board of the home, and who have toiled so faithfully and so undauntedly, and who yesterday saw the reward of their heroism and labor.

As one of them said yesterday: "We simply cannot realize even yet. It is too good to be really true." No one grudged them the crown of praise that was theirs on Thanksgiving eve. Their names are good to say over and over: Mrs. James Campbell, president; Mrs. Charles Johnson, secretary; Mrs. W. M. Rawls, assistant secretary, and Mrs. E. P. Gilson, Treas. Mrs. Louis M. Rieck, Mrs. James Rudy, Mrs. Sol Vaughan, Mrs. Louise Maxwell, Mrs. John Rock, Mrs. John G. Miller, Dr. Della Caldwell, Mrs. James Weller, Mrs. J. R. Puryear, Mrs. Will Kidd.

The matron has just arrived and is Miss Raper, of Indianapolis. Mrs. B. Steiner is the housekeeper.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon the home was dedicated in an impressive manner by the Ministerial Association of the city. Appropriate and interesting talks were made by the Rev. J. C. Reid, Dr. W. E. Cave, and Rev. B. E. Reed, who gave good words of helpful praise cheerfully. The building was then thrown open and inspected by many callers. In the pretty dining room delightful refreshments and coffee were served.

At night the council and many other distinguished citizens, who were unable to attend in the afternoon, called. Altogether it was a gala event in Paducah's history and a fitting prelude to the First Thanksgiving of the new century.

CIRCUIT COURT.

A NUMBER OF ORDERS MADE BY JUDGE HUSBANDS THIS MORNING.

Circuit court had a session this morning and several items of interest to the public were entered on the minute book.

A judgment in the case of John T. Donovan, administrator of the estate of T. W. Harley against Kate Harley and others was filed, making a settlement of the estate.

The claim of $2400 placed by Kate Harley was disallowed and the following allowances made: J. T. Donovan, administrator, $100; J. D. Moquist, attorney, $100; Master Commissioner G. H. Husbands, $10 and the costs of the case amounting to $40.50, making a total of $250. The remainder of the estate was ordered divided among the heirs equally.

In the case of Pat Halloran and others against Maria Cowlin, the attorney for the non-resident filed his report and was made the regular allowance. A judgment for $13.65 was then filed for the plaintiff and the land ordered sold to satisfy the judgment.

In the case of J. T. Jackson, assignee, against the McHenry Coal Co., and others an order for the assignee to sell all the unpaid claims at public auction was made and the sale will be made fifteen days from the date of the advertisement.

The case of Willie Macon against Paducah Street Railway Co. an opinion from the court of appeals was entered and a mandate also filed for record.

In the case of Mamie Doyle against George M. Oehlischlaeger the petition of the plaintiff was dismissed absolutely to which the plaintiff objected and prayed an appeal to the court of appeals, which was granted.

MARRIAGES.

A NUMBER OF CEREMONIES THAT ARE OF INTEREST REPORTED.

The marriage of Mr. L. A. Downs, formerly of the Louisville division of the Illinois Central, but now roadmaster of the Mississippi division with headquarters at New Orleans to Mrs. Ida Milligan of Pembroke Canada, took place at the latter place last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Downs are now on their way south and will reside at New Orleans.

Miss Carrie Mickelback and Mr. Charles Klinger, of St. Louis, were married here last evening by Rev. Father Jansen. They are first cousins.

Last night at 8 o'clock Miss Mary Bell Isaman and Mr. John Healey were married in the Cumberland Presbyterian lecture room by Rev. J. C. Reid. The bride is the pretty daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mike Isaman and Mr. Healey is connected with the Rehkopf leather works.

Mr. Dudley Meacham of the Sun has received news of the marriage yesterday at Hopkinsville of his cousin, Miss Ivy Meacham, to Mr. Harry G. Edwards.

The following licenses were issued yesterday afternoon late: J. K. Stewart, a farmer of the county, aged 51, to Mattie Johnson of the county, aged 21. It will be the second marriage of both, and is set for today.

THE SICK.

The condition of Mr. M. E. Scott is reported no better today.

Mr. Joe Bishop, who was taken ill last night, is much better this morning, and will be out again today.

Dr. Will Whayne removed the tonsils of the little daughter of Mrs. W. J. Meyers of Troy, Tenn., yesterday afternoon.

HE WAS SHORT

Suicide at Louisville of City Treasurer Young.

LOST $50,000 ON HORSE RACES

The Publication of His Shortage Caused the Deed—He Was a Prominent Man.

LOUISVILLE GREATLY SHOCKED

Louisville, Nov. 28.—Stuart R. Young, for four years city treasurer of Louisville, committed suicide last night by shooting himself in the head. This followed an exposure in an afternoon paper of a shortage in his accounts with the city. Some believe his shortage to be at least $50,000.

Suspicion was aroused from the fact that Young refused to turn over his books to James B. Camp, who was recently elected to succeed him. A story of the shortage was then published under the impression that he had left town. At 7 o'clock Young, while returning to the Louisville hotel for dinner, saw a paper exposing the shortage. Without a word he started down Sixth street toward the river, followed by two newsboys who had tried to sell him a paper and who noticed his suspicious actions. He turned into an alley leading to the I. O. freight yards between Sixth and Seventh. The boys stood at the mouth of the alley for a minute and then heard a shot. They ran to Sixth and Main where they notified a cabman, who followed them and found Young lying on his face with a bullet wound behind his right ear. Death had been instantaneous.

Col. Bennett H. Young, his father, said that he knew nothing of his son's shortage. If it had been $500,000 it could have been made up in fifteen minutes. His brother, Lawrence Young, of Chicago, who is wealthy, was notified of the shortage and telegraphed to the surety company to take no steps that he would be here to make the shortage good.

There have been no new developments today in the suicide of the ex-city treasurer, Stuart Young.

The investigation, it is said, shows a shortage of $50,000. He is said to have spent large sums daily betting on horse races. His father, Col. Bennett Young, and his brother and sister are prostrated. Nothing ever shocked the city more.

—Mr. James O'Neill will be seen at The Kentucky Tuesday night, December 3rd, in Liebler & Co.'s stupendous scenic production of "Monte Christo." Mr. O'Neill has been associated for a long time with the role of Edmond Dantes, and with his knowledge of technique and versatility, he has made a type of all that is best in dramatic drama. He has endowed the character with a virility and dramatic fire that make it stand out as one of the greatest pieces of acting on the contemporary stage. This year's production of "Monte Christo" is so massive and gorgeous that it is said to be entitled to rank alongside the great productions of Henry Irving at the London Lyceum. Mr. O'Neill's company includes Mr. Frederick DeBelle, Mr. Warren Conlan, Mr. James O'Neill, Jr., W. J. Dixon, Claude Gilbert, Joseph Slaytor, Mark Ellsworth, Miss Selene Johnson, Miss Kate Fletcher, Miss Virginia Keating and Miss Marie Downs. The supporting company numbers nearly one hundred.

PLEASANT SURPRISE PARTY.

A surprise party was last evening given to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McNamara of No. 419 South Ninth street. The first prize was won by Mrs. Hossian and Mrs. Ella Grogen won the booby prize. Refreshments were served. Those present were: Messrs. and Mesdames Kelley, Heslian, Grogen, Galvin, Woolridge, Clark, Budde, Jacobs, Lydon, Rova, Sauerberg, Mesdames Lottie Burnam, Ella Grogen, Messrs. Will Lydon, Jr., Nevill McNamara, Misses Helen Rova, Mary Sauerberg, Dora Burnam, Mary Smith, Fanny Prince.

Officer J. R. Gray, who has a west end day boat, is one of the few police officers Paducah ever had who has never lost a single hour since he was appointed, nearly four years ago. He is both a popular and efficient officer.

ONE HUNDRED KILLED

Terrible Wreck on the Wabash Road Last Night in Michigan.

A Passenger Train Collides With an Emigrant Train and Scores Perish and are Afterward Cremated.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 28.—The Limited Special train on the Wabash road, of Michigan, and an immigrant train loaded with several hundred Italians met in a head-on collision at Adrian, Mich., a station several miles out of Detroit, at midnight last night and caused one of the most disastrous railroad wrecks in the history of the world.

Fifty were killed outright and thirty have died since that time with twenty-five reported dying this morning. One hundred and fifty are reported seriously and some fatally injured and both crews of the trains were killed outright when the trains met.

The trains struck on the main line at the above mentioned station while both were under a high rate of speed and the engines were reduced to a shapeless heap of scrap iron. The cars caught fire and several were completely destroyed before any attempt could be made to extinguish the blaze.

Mr. B. W. Whitney, the chief dispatcher of the Ontario road, one of the best known train dispatchers, was killed in the wreck with several other employees of the Wabash road. A complete list of the killed and injured is impossible to be had as many are mutilated beyond recognition.

The Wabash road runs out of Buffalo and through Detroit into Chicago and the limited special that met the immigrant train was one of the fastest mail trains on the road.

It is known today that at least one hundred perished in the wreck. The burning cars consumed the bodies. Fifty of the dead were emigrants going west.

A CHRISTMAS TREE

The Sun Again Plans for the Pleasure of the Poor Children on Christmas Day.

WANTED—A NEW KING.

If I were king of fairland, With undisputed sway— If all I wished to do I might In my peculiar way— I'd see that every letter sent For Santa Claus to read Should fall beneath his kindly eye, And that no child should ever sigh Or, longing, wait and wonder why The saint had failed to heed.

Christmas! Christmas! The spirit is already in the air. All hearts are feeling the nearness of its approach and many hands are already busy doing their best to make the Christmas spirit a reality.

The closing year has been a very prosperous one, and the indications point to the greatest Christmas we have ever had. And now, while we are planning for our own Christmas, and for the pleasures for our friends, The Sun is asked to suggest that we give some thought to our less fortunate people and give them, too, the greatest Christmas they have ever known. While most of us are enjoying a good measure of prosperity there are a good many who have not been so fortunate. Let us stop and think of them. This is the age of great charity.

TWO GOOD PERFORMANCES.

Creighton Clarke, that popular and polished actor, with an excellent company, gave two performances at The Kentucky yesterday, a matinee, and a performance in the evening. The matinee crowd was large, but the evening performance deserved better patronage. "David Garrick" was presented in the afternoon, and "Don Caesar de Bazan" in the evening. Mr. Clarke is as good as ever, and his support was good. The scenery and costumes are appropriate, and the audience was greatly pleased. Mr. Clarke was seen in Paducah a little over a year ago in "The Last of His Race."

IRISH PATRIOT DEAD.

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Martin Hogan, the Irish patriot, who has been lying at the county hospital for some days, died yesterday aged 93 years. Hogan together with others interested in the Fenian movement were convicted of treason in 1865, and transported to the English penal colony in Australia. In 1869 Hogan and his companions, excepting John Boyle O'Reilly, who had previously escaped, were rescued by a boat which had been fitted out for the purpose by Irish sympathizers.

QUIET DAY.

Thanksgiving Being Generally Observed in Paducah.

Services Were Well Attended—Business Suspended and the Factories Closed Down.

Thanksgiving is being quietly but generally celebrated in Paducah today. There have been no sessions of the schools, only brief sessions of the courts, and most of the business houses have been closed, and all the banks and public buildings. The church services have been all attended, and most of the factories are closed down for the day.

The holiday is general, and the streets have been alive with those who are off duty until tomorrow.

CAPTAIN ROBBED.

FIVE DOLLARS STOLEN FROM CAPT. MILO ANDERSON.

Captain Milo Anderson, of the steamer City of Carrollville was robbed of about $5 last night while asleep on the boat moored at the wharfboat's end. He retired after twelve o'clock and soon fell asleep. He had nearly $100 under his undershirt, next to his skin, and the $5 stolen was in silver which he had in a shot sack in his pants pocket and his pants were placed under his head when he retired. When he awakened this morning the door of the cabin was standing open and his pants were on the floor where they had been left by the thief. The money under his shirt was not touched. He has no clue to the identity of the thief but thinks it was roustabouts from one of the boats that lay at the wharf last night.

GOOD CHANCES.

FOR KENTUCKY AGAIN WINNING THE A. O. U. W. PRIZE.

Grand Master Workman Thomas D. Osborne of the A. O. U. W., has been touring parts of the state visiting various lodges, and his theme has been principally the matter of the $2,000 prize offered by the grand lodge for the state showing the largest increase in membership. Kentucky has won the prize three times, and now she is in it for the fourth time. Grand Master Osborne, who has been over the state, reports that the chances are rosy for Kentucky to win this prize for the fourth time, as there had been a great percentage of increase in the membership.

DAILY THOUGHT.

"In everything give thanks, for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you." —St. Paul.

The Sun in taking the position that the competition for furnishing plans for the new library building should be unrestricted has simply voiced the policy that it deems best for the public good, inasmuch as the committee has decided that there must be a competition. It has unequivocally expressed the hope that the plans will be furnished by a Paducah architect, if the Paducah architect's plans are the most suitable. A prominent architect this morning showed to The Sun a copy of the official organ of the American Library Association, in which the association declares that in building a public library there should be no competition in the submission of plans. Those in authority should select the architect, employ him, and he should draw plans to suit them. This may be a good plan, and The Sun has no criticism to make of it. It is not the plan selected by the library committee, however, and there is no necessity for discussing it. The library committee decided on a competition, and barred everybody except local architects. It might be the better plan to employ an architect to draw the plans to suit the committee and have no competition at all, but as the action of the committee thus far is in favor of competition, The Sun is in favor of making it open to all.

Secretary Root, in his report of the war department, says that the canton law has proven a failure thus far, but hopes that there will be better results. He says: The provisions of Section 88, of the act of February 2, 1901, prohibiting the sale of or dealing in beer, wine, or any intoxicating liquors by any person in any post exchange, or canteen, or army transport or upon any premises used for military purposes by the United States, have been carried into full force and effect, pursuant to the directions of the statute. When the orders were issued for the enforcement of this section of the law, the commanding officers of the various posts and military organizations were directed to report upon its effects. A great body of reports has been received, which indicate that the effect of the law is unfortunate. I think, however, that a sufficient time has not elapsed to give the law a fair trial, and the observation and report of its working will be continued during the ensuing year.

The United States troops prevented Colombian government troops from using the railroad on the isthmus. It also announced that it would show the troops the same consideration, but the Colombian government is disposed to be ugly over it, and claims that it has a right to the use of the railroad, as the government has sovereignty, and is operated under a government concession. The United States government usually knows what it is doing, and it doubtless did right in refusing to allow the troops access to the railroad.

Judge Hall, at Madisonville, in vacating the bench in response to the desires of the miners arrested for breaches of the peace, proved his fairness. When a man does not desire to be tried before a judge, and takes the legal steps to escape trial before him, the latter should allow some one else to preside, at least in most cases. Of course in a case like those presided over by Judge Cantrell, it is different, for Judge Cantrell is such a very smart man that no one on earth could prevail in a case with the same dignity and impartiality that he shows.

The candidates for city office who were not tipped as winners in The Sun yesterday are very foolish to get mad about it. The Sun intended no offense, but simply gave straight tips. They all can't win, and The Sun cannot help it because some of them must necessarily be disappointed. Before the week is out there will be a revised list, and perhaps some of them may yet be fortunate enough to get a place. But there are bound to be a good many "also rans."

Railroads seem intent on abolishing the passes that have for years been exchanged between them for their traveling officials. It is estimated that 1,000,000 of these passes are issued annually, the L. and N. alone issuing 11,000. The plan suggested instead is to issue interchangeable mileage, and those roads using more than the amount issued to other roads, must pay the difference.

A verdict of one cent and costs has been awarded Charles Dodd against the Leader, at Lexington. He sued for damages and the verdict was the least that could have been rendered.

The citizens of Elwood, Ind., have accepted $25,000 donated by Mr. Andrew Carnegie for a public library, but have declined to name the library after him. It is probable that Mr. Carnegie will not care, as he does not stipulate that this shall be done, but it shows rank ingratitude on part of the people, at least.

STEPHENS.

THE AVALON

CHATTANOOGA MAN GIVES SOME POINTS ABOUT HER.

The Memphis Commercial-Appeal said yesterday: Speaking of the steamer Avalon which is on her way to enter the Tennessee river trade, C. W. Olson of Chattanooga, one of the prominent visitors at the recent meeting of local insurance agents in this city, said: "One of the chief difficulties in the way of the commercial development of Chattanooga in the past has been the matter of freight rates. The railroads seemed to be giving us the hot end of it to such an extent that the business men and shippers finally came to the conclusion that something must be done. As Mr. Peckinpaugh said it wasn't any use waiting for something to turn up. We must help it turn up. But just what to do to better things we were at first at a loss to determine. Appeals to the powers that be in railroad circles and exertion in that direction proved productive of no results."

"It was finally decided to make an effort to accomplish our end through the medium of the Tennessee river. With this object in view we secured the steamer Avalon. She was purchased with Chattanooga capital and to avoid all chance of parties getting possession of her who might divert her from the purpose for which she was intended, we have put her into the hands of a trusteeship, composed of three business men of Chattanooga."

"Her cost was $25,000, and we hope to accomplish great things with her. The Tennessee river is navigable up to Chattanooga almost without interruption; in fact, at times when the Ohio is not, so the Avalon will be laid up very little of her time."

The Avalon is now 200 feet long, 35 feet having been added to her hull, and this had the effect of lessening her draught to such an extent that she can now carry 150 tons more freight than before she was lengthened. She will be run between Chattanooga and Paducah.

BEAUREGARD'S WRECK

SHE CANNOT BE RAISED AT PRESENT ON ACCOUNT OF THE CURRENT.

Memphis, Nov. 28.—On account of the swiftness of the current the attempt to investigate the wreck of the Beauregard proved to some extent futile. Moreover, the fact that the Beauregard is buried below the remains of two vessels which, striking her sunken timbers in the past, have made a small marine graveyard of her decks, added to the difficulties in the way of the diver. The expedition to her resting place was made about 5 o'clock, Monday morning. The diver was soon peering in corners, handling old muskets and old cutlery last touched and last seen during a stirring moment even in the times of the civil war. The current was so swift as to prevent any but a cursory examination. The divers report that the famous old ship was much broken up and parts of her completely carried away. Most of the articles on her at the time of sinking are still intact. Several portions of her timbers were brought back to the city; stout pieces of oak so waterlogged, almost petrified, as to be heavier than iron. The mounting of one of her guns was split in pieces, possibly at the time of her explosion, or perhaps struck by the battering ram of some drifting snag, its corroded strength gave way. A portion of it was brought to this office.

It is not improbable that while attempts at wrecking the Beauregard must be given up for the present, in the course of a few years she may be left high and dry by the action of the capricious current. The old channel of the river is fast filling up. There is some talk of running an excavation to the wreck on Sunday morning should the weather prove favorable.

WHAT CAUSES DEAFNESS.

THE PRINCIPAL CAUSE IS CURABLE BUT GENERALLY OVERLOOKED.

Many things may cause deafness, and very often it is difficult to trace a cause. Some people inherit deafness. Acute diseases like scarlet fever sometimes cause deafness. But by far the most common cause of loss of hearing is catarrh of the head and throat.

A prominent specialist on ear troubles gives as his opinion that nine out of ten cases of deafness is traced to throat trouble; this is probably overstated, but it is certainly true that more than half of all cases of poor hearing were caused by catarrh.

The catarrhal secretion in the nose and throat finds its way into the Eustachian tube and by clogging it up very soon affects the hearing, and the hardening of the secretion makes the loss of hearing permanent, unless the catarrh which caused the trouble is cured.

Those who are hard of hearing may think this a little far-fetched, but anyone at all observant must have noticed how a hard cold in the head will affect the hearing and that catarrh if long neglected will certainly impair the sense of hearing and ultimately cause deafness.

If the nose and throat are kept clear and free from the unhealthy secretions of catarrh, the hearing will at once greatly improve and any one suffering from deafness and catarrh can satisfy themselves on this point by using a fifty cent box of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, a new catarrh cure, which is the past year has won the approval of thousands of catarrh sufferers, as well as physicians, because it is in convenient form to use, contains no cocaine or opiate and is as safe and pleasant for children as for their elders.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets is a whole-some combination of Blood root, Gualacol, Eucalyptol and similar antiseptics and they cure catarrh and catarrhal deafness by action upon the blood and mucous membrane of the nose and throat.

As one physician aptly expresses it: "You do not have to draw upon the imagination to discover whether you are getting benefit from Stuart's Catarrh Tablets; improvement and relief are apparent from the first tablet taken."

THE CASE AND THE VERDICT.

H. B. N. in Life.

A dialogue between a wife seeking information on the great questions of the day and a husband seeking relief from newspaper controversies:

She—I wish you would tell me who is being tried—Schley or Sampson?

He—I should say that the patience of the American people is being tried.

She—I'm serious—as serious as the Navy department.

He—No one is being tried. Brother Schley is "in the hands of his friends," and they are grooming him for the presidential race. Ultimately he will lecture, no doubt.

She, despairingly.—What will the verdict be, do you think?

He—The honorable court will reprimand Schley; then a part of the press will censure the court; then the other part of the press will insult the pro-Schley newspapers, and then the American people will tire of the controversy—many are tired now—and each will adhere to the opinion he formed soon after the battle of Santiago was fought.

She—How foolish and senseless. Can't the matter be settled finally?

He—Only in one way. Schley and Sampson should be condemned to life imprisonment on the most luxurious of our warships, one to command one day and the other the next. The vessel should patrol the coast of Alaska, keeping a sharp lookout for interviewers, they to be shot down as soon as discovered. The commanders should be permitted to communicate with the land only by means of wireless telegraph—which probably won't work in the Arctic climate. Above all, the American people should be granted a reprieve from hero worship until the end of time.

SUPPOSED DISEASES OF WOMEN.

Long stories could be told regarding the outcome of diseases in women made by physicians in the matter of diseases of women. Stomach and bowel troubles of long standing, chronic constipation, resulting in inflammation of the intestines, have been the cause of headache, "blue," bearing down pains and irregularities more often than have derangement of the female system. The effect is lack of energy, pain, resentment that caused by uterine prostration, a melancholy view of life and its affairs; headache; nausea upon rising in the morning. All symptoms easily to be mistaken for those caused by female disease. Dr. Cadwell's Syrup Pepsin and Herb Laxative Compound gives instant relief. Sold by all druggists 10c and 25c bottles, but never in bulk. We will be glad to send you a trial bottle, and a very interesting little booklet on stomach troubles, if you will mention your symptoms. ## DEATHS IN GRAVES

Damage Suit Against a Policeman
Decided Again.

Lunatic Tried for the Third Time—
Work of the Grand Jury.

Mayfield, Nov. 28.—Officer H. C. Wright arrested J. Frank Sanderson on June 16th for being drunk, and had to club him. Soon after Mr. Sanderson brought suit against Mr. Wright and his sureties for $1,000 damages, charging that the officer used more force than was necessary to make the arrest. The trial came up at the last March term of the circuit court, when a jury rendered a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $400 damages. The judge set the verdict aside on the grounds that the evidence was not sufficient to justify the verdict. The case was tried again yesterday, and a verdict rendered for the defendant.

Mrs. T. T. Wortham, a former resident of this city, died at her home in Waco, Texas. She left here about twenty-five years ago, and leaves eight children, two of whom reside here, Mrs. C. J. Whittemore and Mrs. E. S. Beaumont. Mrs. Wortham died in her 80th year.

John Sellers died at his home, four miles west of Wingo, of consumption. Had been sick all summer and fall. He was about fifty years old, and was constable in third district. Leaves a wife and three children, mother and two sisters.

Mr. Basil Enoch, of near Pryorsburg, was before the court this morning on a charge of larceny. The jury adjourned him insane, and he was ordered taken to the asylum at Hopkinsville, and J. P. Halcomb and J. M. Covington appointed to accompany him. This is the third time for him.

The grand jury has been busy since it was sworn in two weeks ago. The total number of indictments found and turned into the court to date is 99, and it is thought they will complete the 100 by tonight. It will remain in session about another week.

THE SUN'S DAILY STORY.

STORY OF A BOY.

By JULIA TRUITT BISHOP. Copyright, 1901, by the Daily Story Pub. Co.

she was listening to the uniformed graybeard at the window, bending toward him a little with an air of charmed interest that warmed the heart under the gold braid. Flitting down to them the length of the drawing room came the hostess, that foolish little Mrs. Lessing, and they heard her saying to the gentleman beside her, while she was yet far off:

"Oh, I've just found you in time, and it's awfully awkward, but you know how people are always disappointing you at the last moment. You were to have gone down to dinner with Clara Rigdon, and Mrs. Harding with Raymond Blaine, and neither of them came—so sorry—"

The girl at the window had not changed her position in the least. She still leaned over the arm of her chair toward the uniform, but the General was suddenly conscious that the lovely young face had lost something of its color.

"Oh, Mrs. Harding," cried Mrs. Lessing, as the girl stood up and smiled graciously at her hostess; "so awkward for a husband and wife to go out to dinner together—people disappointed me—but would you let Mr. Harding take you out, just to oblige me?"

The hostess did not wait for a reply, but took General Blake's arm and led him away. The two were left alone, both standing in the shadow of the window curtains. She was twisting the silken fringe of the drapery between her fingers. She did not look at him, but she saw that the hand resting on the back of the chair from which she had risen was shaken.

"Since we are within full view of a number of our dearest enemies," she said with a scornful smile, still not looking at him, "it might be as well to play the farce out and look—well—say, decently interested in one another. People will discuss us soon enough."

The hand on the chair was suddenly steady.

"With all my heart," said the gentleman lightly, as he placed a chair for her further back in the window embrasure, and took another, close at hand. "We will disappoint them for once."

She looked beyond him, at the throng that danced and promenaded and walked down the long succession of rooms. She looked anywhere but at him.

"While it is really awkward," she said with a bitter voice and a charming smile, "for a husband to be forced to take his wife out to dinner, still, one may live through it under certain circumstances. One has but to remember that it is the last time he will ever be afflicted with her presence, and much may be borne. Really I scarcely expected to see you here tonight. Was I not led to suppose that you were to start for Europe today?"

"I start tomorrow instead," he replied, coldly. "The delay was fortunate. It gives me the opportunity to defer a nine days' wonder for yet another day. Let us do it thoroughly, while we are doing it. What shall we discuss to our faces; that will make us seem not merely tolerant of one another, but absolutely absorbed, devoted—"

"Let us talk of Love," she said, with a burst of scorn and despair that sent a crimson over her pale face. "Remembering our desolate home—my desolate life—we may surely talk of that."

"You are right," he said, leaning a little nearer. "We will talk of love."

She shrank away from him a little, but at the same moment she smiled and nodded at Mrs. Lessing, who passed near.

"Love," he repeated. "What a difference it makes in people's lives! You loved her he kept hastening on to his doom, and dragging her with him. He couldn't wake up to the fact that he was slowly killing love in her. It is one of the saddest things, that people who love one another truly and tenderly can live to be alienated, isn't it? But that is what happened to the Boy. He was young—they were both young—and he was undisciplined—and love was hurt with jar and fret! Over and over again they passed through storms which left them cast ashore in a desert land. They said bitter, heart-breaking things to one another, and it was because the Boy loved her that the bitter things hurt and rankled. And so at last he rose up and said, 'This is enough—I will end it. I will go away today and will never trouble you again.'

He paused, and she stirred a little, but he could not see her face.

"And so, he went down to the boat," he said, steadily; "but even when his foot was upon the gangplank he turned back and stood leaning against something in his utter misery, because he had all at once grown to be a man, and was suffering all a man's agony. That is the end of the story of the Boy—except that the man looked up and saw that foolish little Mrs. Lessing waving her hand at him from a carriage, and remembered that both of them—he and the Girl—were to have been her guests tonight. And such a hungering came upon him to look upon her face again—that he came—knowing that by tomorrow he might summon strength to go—"

"Ned?"

She raised her face and looked at him. Her lips trembled like a hurt child's, even while she was smiling at him.

"Ned," she murmured, brokenly; "the Girl was very young and inexperienced. Don't you think she ought to have a chance to try over again?—And you didn't know—that she was in the boat—hidden away—and that she came very near being taken to Europe—very near indeed—when you turned back so suddenly."

"Isn't it beautiful to watch Mr. and Mrs. Harding?" asked the lady at Mrs. Lessing's right. "They are like two young lovers. Do they know they are at the table? Do they know there is such a thing as food in the world? They have done us all the honor to forget we are living!"

But Mrs. Lessing did not reply aloud. She merely looked, and her eyes were sparkling and brimming. "I may be foolish, but I can manage some things," she whispered to her fan.

tell you a story, in order to make it strictly impersonal! I will tell you the story of a Boy."

She moved a little, enough to drop her cheek to her hand.

"Of course there was a Girl," he went on; "but I will leave her out of the story as far as I can. I will tell you the story of a Boy, because I know his story—because I have seen into his wild, undisciplined, unformed heart, and have watched it make great mistakes, and repeat of them without words, and slowly break—Are you still smiling? I can't see your face, but those people out yonder can, and we are playing the farce for them."

"I am smiling," she said, without moving.

"The Boy fell in love," he said. "He was very young, and had been raised without a mother. I am afraid he was a mere selfish brute, and when he wanted anything he had to have it. He was unreasonable. I have seen into his wild, undisciplined, unformed heart, and have watched it make great mistakes, and repeat of them without words, and slowly break—Are you still smiling? —Miss Henrietta Crossman, who is to present "Miss Nell" at The Kentucky Monday night does not hesitate to give to the members of her company full credit for their share in the success achieved by "Miss Nell," which as is known, was for seven months divided between three New York theatres. The players have repaid this unusual stellar attitude by presenting her with a silver loving cup of goodly proportions. The present will be interesting if only for the wording of the "greeting" which accompanied it. This greeting began with a quotation from the play, followed by a sentiment from the donors. The "greeting" is addressed to "Miss Henrietta Crossman," is signed by every member of the organization, and reads as follows: "O yes, yes. All ye who have grievances! We, the undersigned, having none, beg your acceptance of the accompanying small token of our great regard for you, both as woman and artist." On one side of the cup is an excellent picture of Miss Crossman, in "Miss Nell," masquerading as the rollicking Irishman, Bean Adair, under whom which are the words, "Long Life to Adair." The cup is a beautiful specimen of the silversmith's art, and will be long cherished by Miss Crossman as an evidence of the affection of the first company of players that supported her as a star. It is always in Miss Crossman's dressing room. Seats go on sale tomorrow morning.

ARE WOMEN INFERIOR?

An Old Question Considered in the Light of What Science Says.

For some mankind has been distracted over the relative status of the sexes. The majority of men have held that the opposite sex is inferior to their own. That this is true physically does not admit of question, but their mental elevation is not so apparent. If one looks at the conclusion comes that woman's physical inferiority is the result not of sex, but of something wrong in her manner of life. Among the savages the strength and endurance of woman seem to equal those of man, and as a general rule her lord and master allows her the privilege of doing the hardest work and bearing the heaviest burdens. A Mexican woman tills the ground, attends to the household, looks after the children and when migrating to another place trudges off with a load of goods and chattels on her shoulders and the younger members of the family perched on the top of all. In Germany women work beside their husbands on the farms and apparently are as capable of doing so. In Austria one sees women employed as masons' laborers, and in carrying bricks and mortar. In France one constantly sees women digging trenches, carting sawed for lumber and doing all the heaviest work of an agricultural laborer. From these facts it seems that when woman is physically man's inferior the fault lies in her method of life, which somehow causes physical degeneration. There seems to be no real reason why a healthy woman should have less power of endurance than a man of the same size and development. Perhaps "women's weakness" might more justly be termed "women's follies," for it seems an undoubted fact that medical men would have comparatively little to do if it were not for the injury that women foolishly or ignorantly inflict upon themselves and which the doctors are called in to repair.—Chicago Chronicle.

See Jones' column for farm loan terms.

FEEDS ONE—STARVES OTHER

Feeds the body—starves the microbes! That is what Scott's Emulsion does in consumption.

We can't expect to understand all about these germs and microbes the doctors talk of. They say that one kind causes consumption. Consumption microbes feed on weak lungs. Perhaps that's so.

At any rate we know that Scott's Emulsion has a peculiar action on the lungs which gives the lungs new life and vigor. Healthy lungs starve the microbes out.

Life for the lungs and flesh for the body, that is what the consumptive has a right to expect from Scott's Emulsion. An ideal food and tonic for any form of wasting disease.

At "The Office Saloon No. 2," Charlie Bundy will sit one more of his famous red snapper lunches from 8 to 11 o'clock.

THANKSGIVING LUNCH.

One of the handsomest displays of things good to eat ever seen in Paducah was on display at Sam Gott's Office Saloon No. 2, yesterday. Mr. Bundy, the manager, had the following very tempting things: Red Snapper, possum, turkeys and celery and the whole was prettily decorated with flowers and presented a most tempting display.

At S. B. Gott's "Office Saloon No. 2," there will be red snapper tomorrow morning from 8 to 11.

Homecoming and His Children.

When Theodore Roosevelt has closed the door of his home behind, the soldier, the statesman, the reformer, the writer, are all shut out, and only the husband and father enter, says the Ladies' Home Journal. "His devotion to his wife and children is ideal. To the latter he is not only a father, but also a big, overgrown brother. One of his chief delights is to get down on all fours in the nursery and play bear with the younger ones. When the little bears tire he sometimes sings old Dutch folk-songs for them. Though his voice was never intended for singing there is a certain quaintness and rough charm about these memories of Holland that greatly delight the children."

Don't miss Bundy's red snapper lunch at S. B. Gott's "Office Saloon No. 2," 200 Court street.

COST OF THE LAWMAKERS.

Europe's Parliament is an Expensive Larder to the Taxpayers.

The most expensive parliament in Europe is that of France, which costs $1,500,000 a year. The French people are very well represented. There are 200 senators and 584 deputies, a total in excess of $90. Each receives a salary of $1,500 a year. In the United States the ninety senators and 369 congressmen are paid $2,500,000 in salaries. The members of the British parliament serve without salary. The incidental expenses of this body last year were but $300,000. The German reichstag, with its two branches, costs the voters on an average $100,000 a year. Russia has no parliament in the American or French sense, so that this item is entirely saved. The legislators in the Italian parliament receive no salaries, but have free transportation on railroads. The cost of the Italian parliament last year nevertheless was $420,000. The salaries of lawmakers in many parts of Europe seem trifling, according to American standards. In London, for instance, there are 150 members of the upper and 250 in the lower branch. The former get no pay at all and the latter but $300 a year. And if any session lasts longer than four months they are paid at the rate of $2.60 a day additional. The parliament of Holland comprises 150 members in the two houses. Members of the upper house receive $4 a day and of the second body $500 a year and mileage. The parliament of Holland costs $900,000 a year. The most scantily paid of any of the regularly salaried lawmakers are those of Austria. There are two legislative bodies for Austria, one meeting in Vienna and one in Buda-Pesth. The total cost is $900,000 a year. An Austrian law provides that the members receive 10 florins, or $2, a day.—Ex.

NOTES OF THE RAILROADS

The Memphis Commercial Appeal says: Within a few days a new schedule will be announced by the Illinois Central showing a number of changes in the passenger service and in the arrivals and departures of trains. The deliberations in connection with the new schedule have not yet reached a point where the exact nature of the changes can be stated. The matter of the new schedule was brought up in a meeting of superintendents and division passenger agents with Assistant General Superintendent M. Gilles, held in this city. There were present: Mr. Gilles, division passenger agent John A. Scott of Memphis, and William Murray of New Orleans, and the following superintendents: O. M. Dunn of New Orleans, A. J. Greif of Vicksburg, J. B. Kemp, of Greenville, W. S. King, of Fulton and A. Philbrick of Water Valley.

Mr. B. F. Mitchell, for fourteen years general freight agent of the old C. O. and S. W. railroad, and well known in Paducah, died yesterday in Louisville, aged 55. He leaves a widow and three children, the latter being: Mrs. Boswell Torian, and W. C. Mitchell of Evansville, and Sydney Mitchell of Memphis. The two sons are connected with the Illinois Central.

All the shops of the I. C. here are closed today, and the employees enjoying Thanksgiving Day. Only the clerks in the officials' offices are working, and the shops present a very quiet appearance.
